"Vande Mataram"
Celebrating 150 years of Vande Mataram

EDITORIAL

Dear Readers,

It gives me great pleasure to present the January edition of SPECTRA. The month of January has been lively and action-packed, filled with enriching academic and co-curricular activities such as PA-3, assemblies, PTMs, and vibrant Republic Day celebrations. The pages of this edition beautifully capture these moments and reflect the enthusiasm of our school community.

Our Grade 10 students are diligently preparing for their pre-board examinations as they move steadily towards their Board Exams, while Grade 9 students are appearing for their final examinations. The new academic session for Grade 10 is set to begin on 12th February. Our Pre-Primary students are joyfully preparing for their Graduation Day, eagerly looking forward to their transition into Grade 1.

The Republic Day programmes and displays in both blocks were truly impressive and instilled a deep sense of patriotism among our students. I sincerely appreciate the animators and the entire team of teachers for their dedicated efforts in bringing the Republic Day theme displays to life.The engaging mathematical games conducted by the Mathematics Department during the PTM and the innovative displays by our Robotics students were a delight to witness. I am immensely proud of the dedication and creativity shown by our students in developing their prototypes, which helped them understand tools and their real-life applications. I sincerely thank the EDUME team for their continued support of the Robotics programme.

As students look forward to the Annual Awards Day, I wish each one of them he very best. I also extend my heartfelt congratulations to all the students who have contributed their articles and creativity to this edition of SPECTRA.

I would like to remind parents that our school counsellor, Dr. Neelaveni, visits the school every Friday at 1:30 p.m. Appointments can be booked through the school office.

Thank you for being a part of our journey. Happy reading!

The Quiet Need of Today's Child

"Children do not ask for perfect adults.
They ask for available ones."

In recent times, our school has taken a thoughtful step toward understanding children beyond academics. Through interactions with students, teachers, and parents, one quiet truth began to emerge again and again — today's children are not lacking intelligence, talent, or opportunity. What many of them are lacking is something much simpler and far more essential: emotional availability.

When children were given space to speak freely, they did not ask for fewer exams or more freedom. Instead, their conversations reflected confusion, anger, and a deep need to be heard without judgment. Many expressed that they feel constantly evaluated — by marks, comparisons, expectations — but rarely understood for what they are feeling inside.

Parents, in their sessions, shared another side of the story. They spoke of exhaustion, uncertainty, and the pressure of raising children in a world very different from the one they grew up in. Most parents are working hard, providing the best facilities they can, and genuinely wanting their children to succeed. Yet many admitted that meaningful conversations are often postponed, replaced by schedules, reminders, and corrections.

Teachers echoed similar sentiments. Their dedication is strong, but emotional fatigue is real. Managing classrooms, academic targets, parental expectations, and personal lives leaves little space to pause and connect — even though that connection is what children respond to most.

What connects all these voices is not a lack of care, but a lack of time spent being emotionally present.

Children today are exposed to information far beyond their emotional maturity. They are curious, sensitive, and still learning how to make sense of their inner world. When adults are emotionally available — even briefly — children naturally feel calmer, safer, and more grounded. When that availability is missing, emotions often come out as irritation, withdrawal, distraction, or defiance. Emotional well-being does not require grand solutions. It begins with noticing, listening, and responding with warmth.

A child who feels emotionally safe does not need constant control; they begin to regulate themselves.

A Simple Practice for This Month

The "No-Fixing Conversation" (Once a Week)

Choose one day this week to sit with your child for 10–15 minutes.

- No phone.
- No advice.
- No teaching.

Ask one question only:

"What has been on your mind lately?"

Listen fully. If you feel the urge to correct, guide, or solve — pause.

At the end, simply say: "I'm glad you told me."

Notice how this changes your child's openness over time — and your own.

The 77th Republic Day of India was celebrated on the school campus with great enthusiasm and patriotic spirit. The impeccably coordinated march past by the four houses, especially the disciplined NCC cadets, was a highlight of the programme.

The cultural performances by students of Grade 6, including speeches and dances on Operation Meghdoot, Operation Vijay, Operation Surya – The Hope, and Operation Sindoor, paid tribute to the bravery and sacrifices of the Indian Armed Forces. The thoughtfully designed theme displays showcased India's progress over the last 78 years, the vision of India at 2047, the role of youth in nation-building, and the importance of Skill India, leaving the audience impressed.

The Primary Block celebrated the vibrant festival of Pongal, bringing together both teachers and pre-primary children in a joyful and colourful event. Children came dressed in traditional attire, adding to the festive spirit.

Teachers took the opportunity to explain the significance of Sankranti. The celebration included a variety of activities: teachers prepared Pongal, children flew kites, performed traditional dances, and even gave speeches about the festival.

The children enthusiastically participated in all the activities, recreating the lively atmosphere of Haridas celebrations. The Sankranti-themed decorations by the teachers added a special charm to the event, making it an unforgettable experience for everyone involved.

Summer is here

Summer, summer, summer,
the season has come
with the Chocolate Ice Cream
Oh! Too yum.

The underground flies,
Have started to wake,
They drove up the sky,
to tell someone has arrived.

Holi is also there,
With the shower of colours,
And yummy food,
Will arrive soon.

Days are long,
More time to play
It will be hot here,
as summer is here.

Sweet Success

Sweet Pongal and sugarcane to eat
Doing my homework is a treat!
The Rangoli is bright, the sun is gold,
I'll study hard and I'll be bold

Like a kite with a very long string!
I'll learn what every book can bring.
With a happy heart and a festival smile,
I'll go that extra exam smile.

SCIENTIFIC NEWS

ISRO has revealed new details about cosmic dust particles that enter Earth's atmosphere every thousand seconds, or about every 16 minutes. Using India's first indigenous cosmic dust detector, the Dust EXperiment (DEX), scientists confirmed this phenomenon. These interplanetary dust particles are tiny fragments from comets and asteroids that form the Earth's mysterious meteor layer and appear as shooting stars at night.

The 3-kg DEX instrument was launched on January 1, 2024, aboard the XPoSat mission. Although the data was collected in 2024, the findings were publicly announced in January 2026 after detailed research.

In January 2026, scientists made a major breakthrough in cancer research by discovering that certain brain cells help fuel glioblastoma, the most aggressive form of brain cancer. Researchers from McMaster University and SickKids found that these cells send signals that strengthen the tumor. Importantly, an existing HIV drug was found to block this harmful communication, offering a new treatment possibility.

Another significant advancement in early 2026 is PropMolFlow, an AI model developed by NYU and the University of Florida. It can design new molecules ten times faster, speeding up drug discovery.

‘CHARLOTTE’S WEB’

AUTHOR: E.B WHITE
GENRE: FANTASY FICTION
WRITTEN IN: EARLY 1950’S
PUBLISHED IN: 1952

It is a heart-warming story about a pig named Wilbur and his friendship with a clever spider named Charlotte. The book takes place on a farm where Wilbur is saved from being killed by Charlotte's amazing webs.

I love this book because it teaches important lessons about friendship, kindness, and the cycle of life. Charlotte is so smart and caring, she helps Wilbur even when she is tired. The characters, like the funny goose and sneaky rat make the story exciting and fun to read.

I first read "Charlotte's Web" in school. The words are easy to understand, but the story makes me think about being a good friend. If you like animals and adventure, you should read this book! It is one of the best children's classics.

THE CHERRY TREE

AUTHOR: RUSKIN BOND

My favourite book is The Cherry Tree. It is written by Ruskin Bond. I like this book because it is about a boy who plants a small cherry seed. He waters the plant every day and takes good care of it. Slowly, the seed grows into a big cherry tree. This book teaches us to be patient and kind to nature. It also teaches us that hard work gives good results. I love this book because it is simple and meaningful. That is why The Cherry Tree is my favourite book.

THE MOST TOUCHING EVENT

The most memorable day of the month was 31st December 2025. It began with our English teacher's assembly, which was a truly mesmerising performance. The same day was also my brother's birthday, making it extra special. In the evening, our building hosted a grand New Year celebration, and I invited a few school friends. After the cake cutting, we had a fun cake fight and enjoyed ourselves a lot. The happiest moment was winning two awards along with my team. Overall, it was a day filled with joy, excitement, achievements, and beautiful memories.

Welcoming 2026 was a joyful experience at the New Year's party in our apartment. There were delicious snacks, fun games, and shiny decorations all around. We stayed up late to watch colourful fireworks and celebrate together. As midnight approached, everyone joined the countdown with excitement. When the clock struck twelve, we shouted "Happy New Year!" and used noisemakers and confetti. Before the countdown, we danced to music, played games, and enjoyed pizza. It was a wonderful night filled with happiness and togetherness, making the celebration truly memorable.

My inspiration is Cristiano Ronaldo, a famous football player who plays very well. I admire him because he is hardworking, confident, and loves to learn new things. He started playing football when he was very young and practiced every day. Cristiano Ronaldo's father worked in a football stadium, so he learned more about football from a young age. Ronaldo teaches me to dream big and believe in myself. He shows that with hard work and dedication, we can become successful. I like him because he inspires children to play sports and stay healthy. TEACHER'S REFLECTION

Genesis School has been a place of learning, growth, and inspiration for me as an educator. From the very first day, I felt welcomed into a nurturing community built on trust, respect, and strong teacher–student relationships.

The school promotes curiosity and independent thinking, encouraging students to explore new ideas and creative solutions. Along with academics, great emphasis is placed on values, ethics, and responsibility, helping students grow into confident and compassionate individuals.
